VIDEO | The USS Arizona: A Living Memorial

Thank you to everyone who attended the first of our events commemorating the 75th anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Our special guest was Dr. James Delgado, a maritime historian who participated in the early excavations of the USS Arizona. Delgado spoke reverently of the ship and her crew, and showed us pictures from the latest archaeological dives. If you or a friend missed his talk, watch it online and read an overview from UA News.

Pictured: Dean Karen Williams, Dr. James Delgado, Vice Dean Shan Sutton

UPCOMING EVENT | Affirmations and Surprises
Thursday, September 22, 2016
6–8 p.m.

Don’t miss "Affirmations and Surprises: Following the transformational trail of Tucson’s youth mariachi and folklórico dance movement." Local filmmaker and writer Daniel Buckley will share some of his research into our community’s earliest mariachi and folklórico days, as well as observations from 35 years of documenting mariachi culture. There will also be a performance by the popular high school ensemble Mariachi Aztlán. Seating is limited, so we recommend RSVPing online.

EXHIBIT | Pictures of Nursing

September 19–October 29, 2016
Health Sciences Library

“Pictures of Nursing: The Zwerdling Postcard Collection” is a traveling exhibition from the National Library of Medicine. View a curated selection from an archive of 2,588 postcards and over a century’s worth of images of nurses from around the world. Learn more.

NEWS | Kautz Family Foundation Gift
Benefits Music Students and Faculty

Thousands of digital music scores are now available to performers and scholars at the Fred Fox School of Music. The access was made possible by a $10,000 gift from the Kautz Family Foundation to the University of Arizona Libraries.
Because sheet music can be expensive, the Classical Scores Library is an indispensable resource for students and professors alike. Learn more on the third page of Patron magazine.

Photo Credit: Jacob Chinn

NEWS | Innovative Space for Faculty to Open

Thanks to a generous grant from the Research Corporation for Science Advancement, University Libraries has established the Collaborative Faculty Room in the Science-Engineering Library. Instructors will be able to reserve the room, where they can develop interactive curriculum content and use technology found in active learning spaces. Following an opening celebration later this month, all faculty are invited to an open house on September 27, 10 a.m.–1 p.m.

Paul Blowers, University Distinguished Professor of Chemical & Environmental Engineering says: “The emergence of new collaborative learning spaces has transformed discussions on campus where, regardless of discipline, a growing group of faculty are coming together to share best practices and techniques for helping more students be successful.” Find out more about these classrooms on campus.

Check Out Our Fall Events

What else is happening at University Libraries and UA Press this semester? Find out by downloading the brochure, or picking one up in Special Collections or the Main Library.

LIKE, FOLLOW, WATCH, LISTEN

LIBRARY.ARIZONA.EDU