We've got you covered

Our library staff, faculty, and student workers continue to make sure that we're providing support, safe spaces to work and safe spaces to study. Since March, we've been communicating with university leadership, implementing plans in phases, closely monitoring what's happening and making adjustments in our plan when needed.

• We're still offering limited services in the Main Library lobby.
• We conduct hourly health and safety walk-throughs at the Weaver Library and the Health Sciences Library to ensure that people are wearing face coverings.
• Special Collections continues to be closed, but we're fulfilling requests digitally and providing research assistance.

Every library department is doing its part to support University of Arizona students, faculty, instructors and staff. Be sure to regularly check our website for updates and visit the university's COVID-19 website for campus information.

We've got you covered.

Library resources for students

Undergraduate Engagement and Assessment Librarian Jeannine Paasche-Wood encourages students working on research to reach out. He's happy to meet with you through chat, email or Zoom. Watch Jeannine's video ►►►

Celebrating Hispanic Heritage Month through health literacy

The National Library of Medicine celebrated Hispanic Heritage Month (September 15-October 15) by posting a video from 2018 featuring Outreach Services Librarian Yamila El-Khayat on Twitter. During the pandemic, Yamila has continued to provide remote support to the Promodores de Salud program. "I'm currently writing a grant to continue this partnership, which will incorporate medical students who will interact directly with the community health workers," Yamila explained. "I am super excited to be doing this work!"

Watch the video ►►►

Preserving films from the 1930s takes time

Assistant Librarian and Archivist Trent Purdy and Archival Assistant Amanda Howard are the principal investigators for the $39,175 grant project, which digitizing and preserving 90 motion picture films from the collection of dendrochronologist Andrew Ellicott Douglass.

Learn about the project ►►►

Data grant program launches this month

The University of Arizona Libraries is excited to launch the Data Grant Program to help our faculty, graduate students, post-doctoral associates, and staff purchase commercially available data sets for their research. Grant applications are accepted until November 6.

Read more about the grant ►►►

Press to publish Academy of American Poets winning manuscripts

The Academy of American Poets announced the winners of the 2020 American Poets Prizes, including the Ambroggio Prize. Beginning this year, recipients of the Academy of American Poets’ Ambroggio Prize will have their winning manuscript published in Spanish with the English translation by the University of Arizona Press.

Read about winner Mara Pastor ►►►

Back in the day: 1960

Library pages Lamond B. Preston and Hector Guerra are re-shelving books at the library. Both students are sophomores, in their second year working at the library.

University of Arizona Photo Collection, Special Collections. Explore our digital collections ►►►

Data grant program launches this month

Press to publish Academy of American Poets winning manuscripts

The Academy of American Poets announced the winners of the 2020 American Poets Prizes, including the Ambroggio Prize. Beginning this year, recipients of the Academy of American Poets’ Ambroggio Prize will have their winning manuscript published in Spanish with the English translation by the University of Arizona Press.

Read about winner Mara Pastor ►►►

Back in the day: 1960

Library pages Lamond B. Preston and Hector Guerra are re-shelving books at the library. Both students are sophomores, in their second year working at the library.

University of Arizona Photo Collection, Special Collections. Explore our digital collections ►►►

Data grant program launches this month

The University of Arizona Libraries is excited to launch the Data Grant Program to help our faculty, graduate students, post-doctoral associates, and staff purchase commercially available data sets for their research. Grant applications are accepted until November 6.

Read more about the grant ►►►